

Claire Pimley Davison

Every time we walk past this beautiful tree by the River Coquet, in Rothbury, my daughter Aria, is mesmerised by it. She always has to run over to it and touch the bark, which fascinates her. I think she is desperate to climb up to the top to see the view. There are several trees at this area of riverside but for some reason this one really grabs her attention the most. I would love to learn more about it.